Thinking Out Loud

By H. M. L.

It is high time some authoritative, historically minded person arose to defend the good name of the California vigilantes. For the vigilantes who hung professional murderers, chastened assorted crooks, criminals and blacklegs generally in San Francisco's Argonaut days, restoring the reign of law and order which a corrupt and cowardly judiciary permitter to lapse, have been well vindicated in California history.

The resolute bands of American citizens organized in the California mining camps of the roaring 50s, and that grim body formed for law restoration in Virginia City during the 60s, who purged their communities of thieves, thugs and killers, are enshrined in the hearts of all patriotic Americans. Wherever justice breaks down in this law loving democracy of ours, private citizens can, if they must, fill the breach.

These reflections are incident to the attempt of radicals to defame our historic and incorruptible vigilantes who at various times have made California safe for the law abiding. That the radical element is gaining the upper hand is indicated by the ousting of Homer Martin from his leadership of the auto workers after he, practicaly single handed, had organized their union. The radicals threw him out because he fought their lawless methods. The reason of course, that radicals so much fear a revival of the vigilantes, is that when an aroused citizenry loses patience, it calls a halt on all their subversive activities. Technically, of course, vigilantes themselves are law breakers. Actually they are a body of citizens who take the law into their own hands in order, paradoxical as it may seem, to defend and vindicate the law.

Organizations of this kind may function crudely, but they do function effectively until legal processes are restored to strength and vigor.

When 3,000 men marched from adjacent cities into Akron, Ohio, last year, on orders of John L. Lewis, and overwhelmed the forces of law and order of that city, while they "organized" the rubber industry by club, rock and bottle, by threat, mass violence and sheer physical strength, no vigilantes met the onslaught. Instead the number of workers in Akron, Ohio, were reduced from 75,000 to 25,000 and the WPA and other relief agencies in the long run took over the feeding of a new army of idle men, their wives and children. It was a great victory for the "forces" of John L. Lewis. Many of the rubber plants moved to other states, notably Alabama, where public sentiment, implemented, if need be, by vigilantes, would prevent such a catastrophe as happened in Akron.

There is no record that Nevada County ever resorted to vigilantes. There undoubtedly were law and order committees in the late 40s and early 50s. But so far as a general organization of its law-abiding citizens to put a damper on crime, if there were such bodies formed, history does not say so. Rather, if a murder was done there was a spontaneous up-rising of citizens, the perpetrator was caught, summarily tried, and executed. Incidents such as these, which happened in all early day mining camps, gave way to the orderly processes of arrest by the peace officers and due trial before jury and judge, once these agencies of government were established.

To hear red rabble rousers, communistic fanatics, ex-convicts, and alien law breakers defame the good name of an institution historically vindicated and venerated in the minds of all patriotic citizens, should not dismay us who live in Nevada County. For the same kind of warped human beings in other cities and communities have hoisted the red flag, have stamped and spit on the Stars and Stripes, have denounced and vilified the Constitution of the United States. Americans generally are slow to anger, tolerant to a fault, and respestors and supporters of the law. They wait patiently for an end to the crimes done both in the name of lazor and in the name of American enterprise and industry.

No doubt the early day cutthroat, bandit, horse thief, highwayman and murderer hated and feared the law breaking vigilantes. No doubt today those who seek to destroy this democrary also fear a revival of this early day system of dealing with law breakers when other agencies of government fail. But every time these radicals shout "Vigilanteism!" and pretend to see vigilantes lurking behind every pine tree and fence post, they inevitably place themselves in the same category with the early day blacklegs whose necks were stretched for their sins.

PEOPLE INVITED TO LEGISLATIVE, BILL HEARINGS

Nevada City Nugget
Nevada City, California.
Dear Editor:

In order for the people of my district to know the dates that the standing committees of the Senate will function in Sacramento, I am addressing this communication to them through the medium of your valuable paper.

The committee on agriculture will start its hearings at 10 a. m. February 13, in the State Capitol, followed by the committee on live stock and dairying February 15. The committees on finance, revenue and taxation and social security, pensions and relief will start their hearings February 20; the committee on governmental efficiency February 27.

All hearings will be conducted in the State Capitol building and their purpose will be to allow the people of the state to come before the committees with their suggestions or complaints as to proposed legislation pending before the State Senate.

This, in my estimation, is following out the intent of the Constitution, which provides for a constitutional recess of 30 days to allow the people of the state an opportunity to view legislation proposed before it is acted upon by the legislature. This procedure adopted by the Senate for the first time will give the people the opportunity that the Constitution provides—to be heard without being hampered with the usual legislative turmoil which exists during the actual session.

The committee on agriculture will take up matters growing out of the pro-rate act of the State of California on Monday and Tuesday, the 13th and 14th, the marketing of milk and dairy products on Wednesday and on Thursday, the 15th and 16th, and miscellaneous agricultural problems on Friday and Saturday, the 17th and 18th, if necessary. The agriculturists of my district and the state are cordially invited to attend these hearings and submit their views on the pending legislation.

These committees are not investigating committees, but are the regular standing committees of the State Senate, which will function during the regular session, and are not junketing committees because the Senate has confined their activities to the State Capitol and are operating purely on a sound business basis. We hope through this procedure to expedite legislative process, and by so doing stream line the legislature into an orderly, fast moving sound working unit.

Thanking you for publishing this communication, I am

SENATOR JERROLD SEAWELL,
President Pro Tempore California State Senate.

MAYOR HALL'S CAR SKIDS AND OVERTURNS

Mrs. Ben Hall, wife of Mayor Hall, suffered injury to her neck yesterday afternoon while riding with her husband and two companions and was taken to Jones Memorial hospital in Grass Valley this forenoon for an X-ray. The party was riding along route 40 and foutreen miles above Colfax when the machine hit icy pavement and skidded leaving the road, turning over three times and finally landing right side up. Mayor Hall received a bruise on his head and the other two were severely shaken up. The car was badly damaged. It was taken to Colfax for repairs. Later it was found Mrs. Hall has no broken bones only strained and bruised muscles.

INTERNATIONAL TEA POSTPONED

The International Tea which the ladies of the Methodist church had planned to give tomorrow afternoon has been postponed until weather is more propitious.

McGagin is to be the principal speaker and it is expected that Rudy Albrecht in charge of Y. M. C. A. activities in the Marysville district will give some of his experiences with this problem. Judge George L. Jones will be a guest.

YELLOWJACKETS CAGERS LOSE IN HEROIC GAME

By JEAN MARTZ

Friday night, in perhaps one of the wildest and most unusual games ever played by teams of the Sierra Foothill League, the Nevada City Yellowjackets lost two games. The Roseville Tigers led the A Jackets by the score 23 to 19.

The starting lineup for the "A" team was: Childers, Lotz, Kopp, Doolittle and Gates. The substitutes Brown and Reeder were used in the last quarter.

During the third quarter Nevada City had to play three men against five, and in the fourth quarter, only two. Lotz and Childers kept the Tigers from scoring in the fourth quarter until the last four minutes.

It would have been a sure game for the Jackets but Gates, Kopp and Doolittle had gone out on fouls, and the two substitutes had been used and taken out in the third quarter and because of the Placer county coaches instisting upon a technical interpretation of the rules that Martin was not aware of, Nevada City lost a sure victory.

Roseville is leading the league and would not let Coach Martin put in any substitute, who had played only a few minutes. With Childers and Lotz holding the Roseville five as they did, Roseville would not have had a chance against the Jackets full team. Nevada City came closer to defeating the Tigers than any other team this year.

Besides the exceptional playing of Childers and Lotz, Kopp and Kates played good defensive games until they were out on fouls.

The starting lineup for the B team was: Pingree, Ruth, Tobiassen, McCraney and Thomas. Roseville proved so much superior to the Bumblebees that they lost the game by the large score of 52 to 13. Pingree made ten of the points.

Nevada City will play the Placer teams next week. Victory seems to be in the favor of the Hillmen, but if the Jackets keep improving as much as they have in the last two games, everyone may be surprised.

The scoring of the teams in the Sierra Foothill League is as follows: Roseville, A team 144 points; Nevada City A team 108 poonts; Placer A team 128; Grass Valley A team 93 points and Grant Union 82 points; Placer B team 160 points; Roseville B team 157 points; Grass Valley B team 115 points; Nevada City B team 76 points and Grant Union 81 points.

BASKETBALL BATTLE

The Featherweight Merchants of Nevada City basket ball team met the Future Farmers, Placer Junior College, team in a hotly contested game in the Auburn junior college gym Wednesday evening with the first team going down to defeat by a score of 15 to 14. High point man for the Merchants was John Harding with five points while the high point man for the Future Farmers was Miller with five points.

The Featherweight Merchant team and numbers are W. Barry, W-O; Joyal-plus Forward; Willard-xGuard; Harding, -blank-C-; Bonner-Guard-x-1-; B. Barry and Bishop.

SKIER HURTS KNEE

Allen Widauf while playing in snow sports with a group of young people at the Nevada City ski course yesterday in some way twisted a knee and threw it out of joint. He was taken to Jones Memorial hospital this forenoon, given an anaesthetic and the knee restored to normal place. He was home for the past week. He is a student at Sacramento Junior College and was to have returned to his studies this morning. He will be confined to his home for several days.

HEAVY RAINS MELTING SNOW

The rainstorm last evening and this morning brought 1.22 inches of rain to Nevada City up to seven o'clock this forenoon. Rainfall since the first of the month totals 2.35 inches. Snowfall so far registers two and a half inches on the first, seven inches on the third, a trace on the fourth and a trace today, or a total of about 10 inches for Nevada City. Much of this snow has been melted by the rain.

All stages are making regular trips into the mountain towns. Graniteville which was shut off with the first heavy snowfall has an open road and traffic has been steady to Alleghany. It is thought there are about six feet of snow at Alleghany and Graniteville. The state division of highways reports a foot of new snow since yesterday, giving six feet of snow at Steep Hollow; ten inches new snow at the Junction making 40 inches; one inch new snow at Downieville totals six inches on the ground. The Tahie Ukiah highway is open to route 40 above Emigrant Gap.

Total rainfall for the season is 16.76 inches, for the Nevada City area.

TWO JUVENILES ARE ACCUSED OF BURGLARY

Chief of Police Garfield Robson and Sheriff Carl J. Tobiassen were called this morning to investigate two boys suspected of robbery. The officers were notified this morning when it was found the class room of Miss Helen Chapman had been entered through a window accidently left open. Her desk had been robbed of between nine and ten dollars, the receipts of the P. T. A. school play. It is alleged the boys entered Miss Chapman's class room between six and seven o'clock one evening and that they spent the money last week.

In recent days the chief of police had been called to the George Hitchens shoe store where a robbery had been attempted. Someone had pried off the rear screen door. Last Thursday another attempt was made to enter the place from the rear. On Saturday night January 28, it is reported the same two boys broke into Dr. Bell's dentist office and took a bottle of amalgam filling. One boy had climbed over the transom and let the other one in. Fingerprints were left on the transom. Chief of Police Garfield Robson took finger prints at the scene of both happenings and when he met the boys this morning he confronted them with the Bell and Hitchens' incidents and they promptly confessed the whole thing.

The boys will be left to the care of the probation officers for correction.

MANY SKIERS

The Nevada City ski course operated by Mr. and Mrs. Max Lantz had a fine patronage yesterday. The course is about ten miles east of Nevada City on the Tahoe Ukiah highway. About two feet of solid snow made good skiing.

Miss Amy McCraney student at the University of California is spending her vacation with her mother Mrs. O. McCraney.

180,000 Winter Sports Folks Contaminate Nevada City's Water

One hundred and eighty thousand skiers and winter sports enthusiasts used the great outdoors of Nevada City's water shed, the source of its domestic water supply, for their toilet requirements during the last winter. The Rotary club, the P. T. A. and the Women's Civic club, besides many individuals, among whom were a number of physicians, have called the attention of the Nevada City council to the urgent need of chlorinating the city's supply of water.

Physicians emphasize the imminent danger of epidemic which might cost this city far more in the aggregate than the cost of installing an adequate chlorination system at the city's two reservoirs. City councils have been sued and damages recovered for neglect to take precautionary measures in safeguarding the domestic water supply.

The following letter on this subject has been received from Dr. E. L. Armstrong, giving urgent reasons for the installation of a chlorination system:

H. M. Leete
Editor, Nevada City Nugget
Dear Mr. Leete:

As one who comes in contact a little more directly with the general and individual health of the community, I am writing to you at this time soliciting the benefit you and your paper can render to Nevada City by furthering attention to the water situation in our town. I believe that possibly a little further education of the general population may be of great aid in furthering the cause of some form of treatment of the water that is distributed here, and which is sorely needed as you know.

There can not be a great deal of question as to the potential danger of the water in the town when on various occasions it has been demonsrated that bacteria from the human bowel can be cultured from samples of water taken at random here in town. While it is true that the organisms cultured and recovered from the water here do not frequently cause disease, it is also true that the finding of them does indicate fecal contamination from some human source. This being present means that bacteria causing other diseases and which are also on occasion carried in the human bowel, can be distributed widespread to the community through the water when such a person who may have these organisms contaminates the water. If we think that we are going to avoid that possibility, we are only fooling ourselves as every winter our watersheds are becoming the playground of a greater and greater number of people from every part of the state.

It is impossible to assume that we will forever avoid some contamination of our water supply which may cause a severe epidemic of typhoid fever, streptococcal infections and the like, which always produce a certain amount of mortality and a great deal of suffering and expense. When we stop to consider that typhoid fever, for instance, kills at least one out of every ten people it strikes, think of the situation in this town if five hundred people should come down with this dread disease. In addition, we have to consider the number of people who might have the disease, recover, and become carriers of typhoid for the rest of their remaining lives—a constant, endemic source of infection to the rest of the community. Such an eepidemic can and may occur anytime under the present conditions.

Another thing that should also be considered is the actual financial loss that the community as a whole is sustaining right at the present time as a result of time lost from school by children suffering from upset stomach and bowel conditions, which are very likely spread through the water supply. The school allowance from the state is governed, as we know, by the number of pupil school days in the year and every day lost by a pupil is just that much less the local schools get from the state fund. It is possible, of course, that this type of illness to which I referred above may be due to improper preparation of food, spray on fruit, and the like, which many people allege, but it hardly seems likely in view of the fact that Auburn and Colfax, two communities very similar to ours in a great many respects and both of which have some form or water treatment, do not report anything approaching our morbidity statistics for this one particular type of ailment. How can we do else than assume that the water supply is probably responsible?

There has already been done a great deal of very fine work by indidivuals and organizations in this town in behalf of an improveme in the sanitation of our water supply. I believe that as soon as the whole population apreciates the dangers to themselves individually and to the community collectively, that some satisfactory plan will be put into effect in short order. It will be certainly too bad if we have to wait until one disastrous water borne epidemic teaches us our lesson.

I, as well as many others, will appreciate anything you may feel able to do at the present time in an editorial way, to help improve this very bad condition.

Very truly yours,
E. L. ARMSTRONG, M. D.

Mrs. Anna Tucker, deputy county recorder, is in receipt of a letter from her son, Eugene Tucker, and family in far away South Africa. The letter was written December 28.

Mr. and Mrs. Tucker stated it was very warm as it is summertime there. They had spent a happy Chsistmas. A native custom called "Christmas box" had proved quite interesting. The natives started calling on Christmas eve and continued until Sunday night. Each bring a gift to persons about the mine. Tea and sugar were brought to women, cigarettes to the men, candy for children and a schilling each for the waterboys about the mine. There was quite a steady stream of the natives making the gift offering. The day after Christmas was called Christmas box and it was a holiday. The post office and all places of business were closed. The Troubleshooter

Being everybody's troubleshooter is an enormous task, yet it's the perpetual job of Congress and President, of Federal agencies and Cabinet.

And in a country vast as ours, there are plenty of "everybodies", and not a few "somebodies," keeping everybody's troubleshooter up to the neck in work and worry.

WPA unions fighting for larger relief appropriations, Army and Navy officials insisting on no cuts in a mammoth defense program, cotton farmer spokesmen demanding comfort for a headache induced by an 11-million bale surplus, organized pensioneers lobbying for more pensions, railroads arguing that Uncle Sam cure their woes by giving more woes to water and motor carriers, and health groups insisting on a national program of medical aid—all these and more have brought their demands to Washington recently.

Everbody's troubleshooter must not only listen to all these worries, complaints, and counter-charges. It must also act—and act, not in the interests of one group, but in the interests of the nation as a whole. Thus it was the Interstate Commerce Commission, in its annual report to Congress a few days ago, ended its study of demands from one transport group—that its competitors be crippled for its sake—with the statement, "Government has no magic enabling it to sweep back the tides of economic change. It goes without saying that water carriers, motor carriers, and air carriers have all contributed gently to the improvement of tansportation, and that their welfare is entitled to equal consideration. The concern of government must be the transportation welfare of all the country."

To be everybody's troubleshooter, without becoming anybody's partisan, to place national interest above group or sectional loyalty, requires high statesmanship. If, on occasion, our representatives seem to falter, remember it's a prodigious task being troubleshooter to a nation.—Contributed.

Science Is Wonderful

Science is wonderful! Already we have the streamlined turkey, non-skid corn on the cob, and the seedless orange. For themselves they have won new popularity. For the farmer, they have made this a more prosperous world to live in. For most of the rest of us, they have made the dinner table a better place to sit at. Scientific research did the job!

After all, this thing we call "science" is merely the simplest way of reaching a given objective whether the goal is to produce a self-cracking walnut, or to get a crop from the orchard into the hands of millions of consumers with a minimum of waste-time and waste-money. In one case the laboratory provides the answer, in the other national distributive channels provide the most direct route to the big markets.

Now agriculture and science are seeking to make life pleasanter for the people who constitute that market. They have produced streamlined watermelons and turkeys so they will fit the icebox—mass distribution sees to it that they fit the pocketbook. The odorless cabbage has gratified the entire household. The splattering egg that spreads over the frying pan has challenged researchers to develop the non-skid egg which holds its own. And now a California genius has at last cracked open the long-standing walnut problem. Harmless gas is injected into the nuts before they go to market. All the purchaser has to do is place the walnuts near heat, and pop! the shells explode outward, leaving the kernel.—Contributed.

GLOBE TROTTING STORY COMING TO NEV. THEATRE

Tay Garnett, globe trotting film director who roams the seven seas in search of unfamiliar backgrounds for motion pictures, recently completed in Hollywood the screen play which is the result of his most ambitious expedition.

The picture is "Trade Winds" the Walter Wanger production which opens tomorrow at the Nevada Theatre, with Frederic March and Joan Bennett in the starring roles. Though the story begins and ends in San Francisco portions of the action take place on authentic locations in seven countries of the Far East, in the course of a detective chase which leads the principa characters half way around the world.

Personally Garnett, a true loved of the sea, is a strapping figure of a man, an Irish American who combines many of the characteristics of both races. His eyes twinkle with humor, and his Irish sentimentality long ago demonstrated its value in the filming of scenes filled with the more tender emotions.

THOUSANDS OF ANIMALS GRAZE IN TAHOE FOREST

The Tahoe National Forest has been authorized to issue grazing permits for 8,170 cattle and 38,750 sheep for the calendar year 1939, according to word just received by forest supervisor DeWitt Nelson at Nevada City from his regional office at San Francisco. These numbers are already taken up, Nelson says, by preference acquired and held over a period of years by private land owners within or adjacent to the national forest or by permits issued to lessees of railroad land located within the forest boundaries. Where forest and privately owned land adjoin and compose a natural grazing unit, the forest service issues what is called an on-and-off permit whereby the stock graze over the entire unit, and the permittee pays on a proportionate number of his stock, depending upon the private land acreage in ratio to the government land.

HURRAH for CALIFORNIA!
Yes, ma'am, we've got plenty to celebrate about out here in this land from the Sierra to the Golden Gate.

No king or queen has ever spent a winter more comfortably than we have. A dozen servants stoking up a fire couldn't have kept any home at just the right temperature as well as our Modern Gas heating did last winter. Think of us, and the thousands of Californians just like us, who were pressing a button or tuning in on a thermostat and sitting and absorbing the comforting warmth from some Modern Gas heating machine.

Let's tell the world about it. I feel like shouting—Hurrah, hurrah, hurrah, for California—where Life is easier, better and cheaper.

HIGH PRICES AND HIGH WAGES ARE RECOVERY BRAKE

By RALPH H. TAYLOR

"What we need in this country is an annual income comparable to our man-power and our physical and monetary resources. We have the men; we have the resources; we have the money—and we have the human need unfilled to justify a rate of production and a total national income far beyond anything we ever have dreamed of.

"The real job ahead is to bring about such a rate of production that all our effective man-power may find useful employment!"

After all the doctrine of scarcity experiments of recent years, and in face of admitted over-production (or at least under-consumption) in many branches of agriculture and industry, the foregoing analysis of America's economic needs is both startling and challenging.

But who enunciates this old-fashioned philosophy that new wealth must come from new production? Who challenges us to return to the fundamental economic principles after fruitless years spent in chasing new age cure-alls and glittering panaceas? And is he qualified to speak?

The diagnostician is none other than Chester C .Davis, farmer-member of the Federal Reserve Board and former federal AAA administrator—generally recognized as one of President Roosevelt's ablest appointees, as a sincere New Dealer and as a sound student of agricultural, business and industrial problems. With that background as to the man, his words take on added significance. And speaking before the American Farm Bureau Convention in New Orleans, he elaborated on his analysis as follows:

"The American people themselves are going to lose patience, sooner or later, with an economy that tolerates unemployment in the midst of potential abundance. But there is no magic way to national income expansion—not through monetary action nor legislative device nor by negative inaction.

"One important principle must be made to work if we are to hit the stride we are capable of: Both industry and labor must look to full production for increased earnings. Incidentally, that is what agriculture has always done, and if the rest of the economy will learn to practice it, the treatment necessary for agriculture will be greatly simplified. We are not going to expand our national income unless and until the employers of labor look to increased production rather than to higher prices for profit; and unless and until organized labor learns that increased production is the only safe path to higher real wages."

Citing the action of manufacturers and other non-agricultural producers in shoving prices up at the first quickening of a demand — and of labor striving for the highest attainable hourly wage for a minimum of production—Mr. Davies pointed out the disastrous consequences of such short sighted procedure by recalling how it choked off the expected and vitally needed rise in building in 1936 and 1937.

Not claiming any magic answer to the question as to what is necessary to keep industry running at capacity on things people need and want, Mr. Davis nonetheless emphasizes that government, business and labor must recognize as a fundamental principle that we must sow to reap—that wages come from production, not from labor unions, and that profits come from increased sales, not from marking up prices. He says:

"All elements—the manufacturer, the laborer, the farmer, the distributor, the carrier, the press, the educator—had better address themselves to this central problem. I hope our approach to it will be reasonably good-humored, tolerant of the other fellow's problems and courageous—qualities which I like to think of as characteristics of the American way."

It is reassuring to have a national leader of Mr. Davis' rank and ability pointing the way back to solid economic ground. We need more of that type of common-sense treatment of our economic problems. And it is to be hoped that many of our other leaders, both in Washington and in state affairs, will help to dissipate the "something for nothing" mirages which have obscured the way to a restored prosperity. We must still plant to harvest; we must still produce to earn; those laws no economic upset can change.

Eugene Gregory came down from the Spanish mine last Thursday to receive medical attention for an injured back. His wife accompanied him and they are staying with Mr. and Mrs. R. Mullins on Nimrod street.

RELIANCE QUARTZ PLACER PROPERTY

Mrs. Kittie Kimball one of the principal owners of the Reliance Quartz and Placer property, near the Plumbago mine at Alleghany, is making plans for extensive development in the spring. She will continue a tunnel started by her late husband from its 172 foot length to a distance of between 800 and 900 feet and drain the Middle Yuba river water through the tunnel in order to mine about 3,000 feet of river bed. The tunnel will be below the old Von Humboldt mine. The Reliance Quartz and Placer property has the same formation as the Plumbago mine which has a rich past production record. Mrs. Kimball did extensive development work at the property last year on an ancient channel.

Joyal, has an enrollment of eight advanced mathematical students. Robert Burke, who began teaching a journalism course reported an enrollment of near seventeen. Mildred Severtsen, teacher of the new course commercial geography reports about 23 in her class.

ASSEMBLY

An assembly was held Friday morning, when Mr. Kjorlie showed five moving picture films. Two of them were on winter sports. One was about winter sports in New Hampshire, the other sports at St. Mortiz. It was entitled "Swiss on White." The second film was entitled "Trees'.' It was accompanied by beautiful organ music by Mr. Crawford. There were such old favorites as "Trees". "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree" "Ode to a Shady Tree" and "Lullaby of the Leaves." The third was a comedy an interpretation of "Cinderella." They were all very interesting and enjoyed by all the students.

HI STUDENTS TO LEARN TRADES AT FIRST HAND

By JEAN MARTZ

A new type of student education, student "cooperatives" begin today.

It is a great opportunity for the boys who are placed as it will give them an idea as to what they will spend their life doing and help them to obtain jobs sooner.

The boys chosen will receive no compensation for their work. It will be the same as supervised class work but the managers of the business places will be their teachers. They will work at the different places from 1 to 4 every afternoon for five days a week.

The Tahoe National forest service, who teach drafting and other governmental work, will take four boys. Two will work in the drafting department and two in the machine shop. The boys selected for these positions are: Lubrun Williams and Byron King, machine shop, and Bill Joyal and Frank Angelini, drafting. The boys in the different places were chosen by the faculty.

Lane's Garage on Broad street have agreed to take one boy, who will be Oscar Engstrom. Johnson's Garage will also take one, who will be Karl Kopp. The Nevada City Nugget will take Hershal Lotz to learn the printing trade. The Miners' Foundry and Supply Company agreed to take two boys in the foundry work, one in the machine shop and one in welding. Russell Moyle and Beverly Barry were chosen to work in the firm. Richard Keene was placed in L. E. Noyes electrical shop.

There are still two places open; Hal D. Draper, assay office and Kopp Bakery.

A student will also be placed in the plumbing department of the Alpha Stores.

Mrs. Marie Pemberton and daughter, Phyllis, of North Sacramento and Miss Laura Gardner of Folsom passed through Nevada City Thursday enroute to the Cold Spring Service station near Camptonville to visit Mrs. Laura Bullington. This is Mrs. Pemberton's first visit with her relatives in a number of years and she was delighted to find the highways clear of snow even while they were driving through a storm of almost blizzard proportions. The division of highways under Supenintendent Fred Garrison kept the road in fine condition and motorists using chains made the trip easily.

MR. AND MRS. BERGGREN CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Berggren celebrated their twenty sixth wedding anniversary Saturday evening with a delightful party at their home on the Murchie mine road. The anniversary occurred on Wednesday but the party was held at the later date to make it easier for friends to attend. A beautiful basket of flowers were presented Mr. and Mrs. Berggren on the first date and it was placed in their jewelry store on Pine street. They also received a number of lovely gifts.

A delicious goose dinner was served Saturday evening and a happy social time enjoyed. Mr. and Mrs. Berggren came from Van Nuys to Nevada City in 1935 and have purchased a small ranch and opened a jewelry store in this city.

Present for the delightful affair were, Sheriff and Mrs. Carl J. Tobiassen, William Woods, Sally Farley, Mr. and Mrs. Art Fairhome, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Summerfield. Mr. and Mrs. George Baldwin and Mr. Baldwin's mother, Raymond Meyers, Mrs. Blanche Brown, Louie Orzalli and host and hostess. Daughters of Mr. and Mrs Berggren who are in Sacramento were unable to attend on account of the storm.

George Hallock was able to drive his car down from Alleghany last Thursday through several feet of snow. He returned Saturday.

Miss J. L. Gorle of New York City arrived Saturday and is making an indefinite visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Syms. Mrs. Syms and Miss Goble are girlhood friends and are enjoying a delightful visit.

William Home, men's wear dealer of this city is spending a few days in San Francisco and will return home about Wednesday. It is a pleasure and business trip as he will look into spring buying for his store.

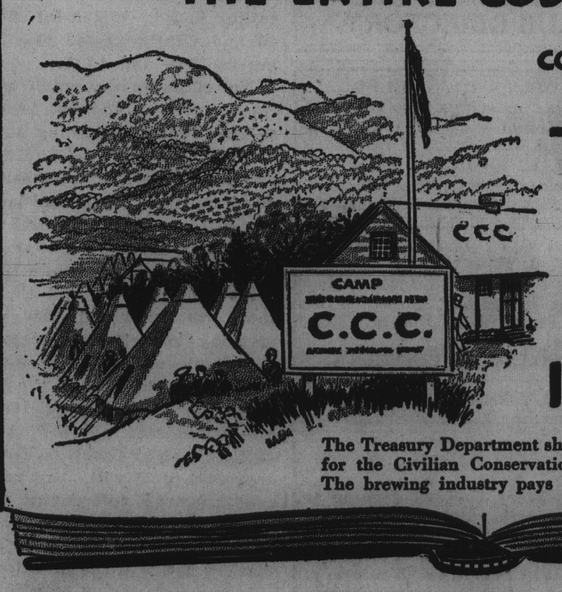
THE ENTIRE COST OF THE C.C.C. COULD BE PAID FOR BY THE TAXES OF THE BREWING INDUSTRY!



The Treasury Department shows expenditures of 326 million dollars for the Civilian Conservation Corps for the fiscal year of 1938. The brewing industry pays over a million dollars a day in taxes.

What Beer contributes to the re-building of America would fill a great volume

Over 400 million dollars in taxes every year. Over 1,000,000 jobs. A market for 3,000,000 farm acres of produce.

The brewing industry would like to preserve for itself and the people the many economic benefits it has created in the past five years. Brewers everywhere realize that this is a question bound up with the proper distribution of their mild and wholesome beverage through retail outlets whose character will be a credit to the community. Obviously, the brewers can enforce no laws. But they can—and will—cooperate with the local law-enforcement authorities. They will cooperate with every group—friend or critic—to the end that retail beer outlets give no offense to anyone.
